

(Source: איזוהר חסיד – Who Is a Hasid? – The Life of Yissachar Dov (Berel) Waldman, by Asher Zelig Phillip)

(Translated from the original Hebrew)

R' Avigdor Karp, of blessed memory (son-in-law of Rabbi Elimelech), was an outstanding Torah scholar and a devoted ḥasid, deeply bound in his heart to the holy rabbi, Rabbi Hershel of Rozwadow, of blessed memory. He was the one who testified that Rabbi Avigdor merited to serve as a halakhic decisor in Israel. Rabbi Avigdor merited a settled and comfortable life, and long years.

In Antwerp there lived an elderly woman from Rozwadow who remembered that at a time of his confusion all the shops were closed out of respect for him, and she also remembered his wife, Sarah Breindl, of blessed memory, a woman who was very righteous and highly esteemed.